In this beautifully written and meticulously researched book, Natalie Zemon Davis tells the stories of women who have made significant contributions to the field of history. She traces their paths from childhood to adulthood, from their early education to their professional careers. She explores the challenges they faced as women in a male-dominated field and the ways in which they overcame those challenges.

Davis's book is a fascinating and inspiring read. It is a reminder of the important role that women have played in the development of our understanding of the past. It is also a testament to the power of education to transform lives.
