Proceedings of the International Conference on Trust, Culture and Law in Dakar, Senegal, 9-11 May 2019

This book publishes the proceedings of a conference organized by the Faculty of Law and Political Science of Cheikh Anta Diop University (UCAD) in Dakar, Senegal, on 9-11 May 2019. The purpose of the conference was to promote and contribute to the dissemination of scientific knowledge on the role and scope of trust in the implementation of laws and policies that value cultural diversity.

The conference brought together scholars, researchers, policymakers, and practitioners from a variety of disciplines, including law, political science, sociology, anthropology, and cultural studies. The participants discussed a wide range of topics, including the following:

- The role of trust in building and maintaining cultural diversity
- The challenges to trust in the context of cultural diversity
- The legal and policy frameworks that promote trust in cultural diversity
- The role of education in building trust in cultural diversity
- The role of the media in building trust in cultural diversity
- The role of civil society in building trust in cultural diversity

The conference proceedings are divided into three parts. The first part provides an overview of the conference and its objectives. The second part presents the papers that were presented at the conference. The third part provides a summary of the conference discussions and recommendations.

This book is a valuable resource for scholars, researchers, policymakers, and practitioners who are interested in the role of trust in cultural diversity. It provides a comprehensive overview of the current state of research on this topic and identifies areas for future research.
